

RDG.ENERGY

RDG's core business combines traditional oil and natural gas production with renewable energy. We offer unique solutions for domestic, decentralized production of energy from underground resources. As a high-tech company, our work starts where our competitors stop: we combine the best of both worlds.

Our technical know-how allows us to develop even small reservoirs for commercial production of conventional energy sources. We also use state-of-the-art technology to extract resources from existing fields. Sustainability and efficiency are the central priorities in our work. This means that where possible, reservoirs are reused as sources of renewable geothermal energy after production of conventional energy sources has ended. We call this reservoir upgrading.

Right now, we are seeking highly qualified candidates to fill the position:

Public Authority Manager (m/w)

Responsibilities:

- Securing all permits required in the exploration and production of hydrocarbons according to the mining law and relevant regulations (e.g. technical operating plans, drilling permits, land release permits, agreement with landowners).
- Developing and maintaining relations with the competent authorities, sub authorities and utility companies involved in the permitting procedures.
- Representing the company at the Mining Authorities, etc. and acting as legal focal point for claims raised towards company
- Secure real estates for mining activities and maintain a real estate's register
- Representation of company in relevant associations
- Supervision of seismic acquisitions from permitting point of view
- Legal contributions and proposals for modifications of mining law
- Public relations incl. media work (TV interviews, press statements) accompanying seismic acquisition and drilling projects
- Participation in public forums for citizens affected by seismic and drilling activities

Qualification:

- University degree in law, or similar education
- At least 5-7 years experiences in similar position
- Experiences in oil and gas production environment a must
- Broad experience with working across business and enabling functions
- German and English written and spoken proficiency
- Strong analytical skills, ability to think and act strategically with exceptional focus and prioritization
- Experiences in public relations activities including and applying an integrated communication approach
- Willingness to travel

We offer:

- Excellent development opportunities in a fast-growing E&P company in a dynamic environment with international staff
- Responsible position with high degree on autonomy in international setting

- Competitive salary as per your qualification and experience, plus fringe benefits
- Place of work: Hannover

Be a part of a growing team in an exciting environment!

Please send your application incl. Motivational letter and CV to: Head of Human Resources, Isabella.uiberacker@rdg.energy

www.rdg.energy

RDG GmbH & Co KG, Germany, D-30159 Hannover, Bahnhofstraße 8

